Design Statement The dress is made of a satin red dress, a blue fabric and sequin red fabric. The sequin fabric was a leftover that I used for a skirt a long time ago. Also, I used a leftover of a sky-blue fabric that I used to design a blouse. I layered the red sequin fabric between the two pieces of blue fabric to add delicateness to the gown. The sky-blue fabric is a bit heavy so to add fluidity I put the transparent fabric in the shoulder of the dress. To add brightness to the dress I cut out pieces from the red sequin fabric to create small flowers and branches. To create the belt of the dress I use strips of the fabric from the red satin dress. The bias strips that I use on the neck of the dress came from the red satin dress.
